

Interpon F Orangebox ARA

Interpon F has been specified on Orangebox's new range of office chairs – ARA.

Orangebox are one of the UK's most innovative office furniture manufacturers operating since 1973.

Their newest design is the ARA chair, described as a chair of refined performance, comfort and support that redefines a perspective on sustainability.

The chair has been designed to maximise back support through its elastomer membrane. The rigid outer frame supports the membrane with a posturally correct 'S' shape and its flexibility allows it to adjust automatically to the profile of your back.

The base has been coated in Interpon F1000, which has been specifically designed for interior metal furniture giving improved surface hardness and durability. Three colour options have been chosen including stone, silver and black.

Interpon F is a new range of powder coatings from AkzoNobel that have been developed for interior and exterior furniture. This dedicated range meets furniture industry standards and is available in wide range of colours and finishes.
